CO-HEAD CHAIR LETTERS

Dear Delegates,

My name is Alina Nhean, and I am thrilled to welcome you to Jackrabbit's first ever Ad-Hoc committee! As a drama kid who thrives in chaotic environments and has had far too many lessons on improvisational theater, I look forward to the many ways you'll improvise your character arcs and fabricate directives throughout our time together.

Currently I'm a senior and a student in the Poly MUN class. Over my two years of MUN, I've grown fond of crises (especially fantasy!), and enjoy the endless ways we delegates are able to rewrite history. When committee sessions aren't in place, you can usually find me in the theater, whether it'd be preparing for a role or helping backstage. I've even gotten the pleasure of directing and writing my own play! In my occasional moments of free time, I also enjoy play-writing, listening to musical soundtracks, and volunteering at St. Mary's Medical Center, or binge-reading a good light novel.

The Ad-Hoc room will undeniably put you through many challenges, so ask me or Noah on committee day for any questions you have regarding [REDACTED]. While you don't have any solutions or ideas yet, I'm excited to see the many compelling ways that tackle [REDACTED]. Also, stay tuned for our hints each month!

Yours truly,

Alina Nhean

CO-HEAD CHAIR LETTERS

Hello delegates!

My name is Noah Coles and I am so excited to be a part of Jackrabbit MUN's first ever Ad-hoc committee. This being my last year in the Model UN program, I knew I wanted to be involved in something big and I sincerely hope that as delegates you enjoy the Ad-Hoc [REDACTED]. Throughout my MUN experience, I have grown to love practicing my diplomacy skills and my overall confidence as a public speaker has grown.

Outside of Model UN I enjoy spending my free time being active! Whether it be playing pickleball or volleyball, snowboarding, and rock climbing I am always moving and because of this I appreciate the activeness of a crisis committee. Delegates are always altering the script and I see many parallels with that and the extra curricular activities that I do. That being said, I also spend my free time studying Chinese, volunteering at the rabbit hole at my school, and reading philosophy.

The nature of the Ad-hoc, let alone crisis committees can be hectic but I am fully confident you will come up with interesting character arcs and meaningful directives throughout the committee. If you have any questions or concerns please feel free to reach out to either me or Alina on committee day and of course have fun!

Sincerely,

Noah Coles

VICE CHAIR LETTER

Hello delegates!

My name is Sohl Vadecha and I am so excited to be Vice-chairing this year's Ad-Hoc Committee for [REDACTED]! Although this is my first year in the MUN program, I already feel like it has improved my public speaking skills and I have met some great friends through it.

Outside of the committee room, you can find me running, playing basketball, or with my nose buried in a good book.

I believe that the best solutions are found through collaboration, and in this committee, all delegates have the opportunity to make a powerful impact on history. As we navigate the different challenges facing [REDACTED], let's remember that every idea and voice is important and vital to the success of the committee.

I look forward to hearing your creative ideas, debates and negotiation!

Sincerely,

Sohl Vadecha

CRISIS LEAD LETTER

Hello delegates!

My name is Janice Jung and it is my honor to be your Crisis Lead for our first ever Ad-Hoc Room! As it is my senior year, I hope that you all will be really excited when you find out that the room is about [REDACTED] and have fun throughout the chaos that is Ad-Hoc.

I have been in MUN for four years (time flies when you're having fun), and aside from MUN-ing, wave hi if you see me stuck in traffic on my way to UCLA for biomed or when you see me on the tennis courts. Aside from school, you can probably run into me virtually in a round of Marvel Rivals or Osu!

No matter how annoying it may say, "MUN is FUN" so feel free to go crazy with your crisis arcs and create friendships that will last beyond JackrabbitMUN. Here, we strive to promote growth and learning, so I hope this conference helps you on your MUN journey. Also, feel free to email me or anyone else any questions you may have or even feedback after the conference. I truly do hope you enjoy talking about [REDACTED] as much as we did when making this room!

Scheming in the backroom,

Janice Jung

COMMITTEE DESCRIPTION

An Ad-Hoc room is a unique crisis committee intended to challenge delegates, by removing their opportunity to research in advance. Unlike other committees, the topic of debate will be hidden until the day of committee. Delegates will expect a fast-paced debate, and must adapt to creating directives and following a character arc with limited information. For these reasons, the Ad-Hoc room is recommended for delegates with crisis experience.

The (real) Background Guide and Topic will be released on May 24, 2025 at 8:00 AM.

At the start of the first committee session, delegates will be given their character, and will be allowed a 30 minute research period. Please note that after the 30 minutes are up, no technology will be allowed.

At the beginning of each month, a hint will be released on the JackrabbitMUN website. These hints give a clue as to what the committee topic is, and you can submit your thoughts and ideas on this google form. The google form is also linked on our website—the password is good-luck. Please do not submit this form more than once per hint, and we will follow up with a response shortly after if you've solved the hint or not. The delegate who solves the most hints in the least amount of tries will receive the Best Sleuth Award, in replacement of a Research Award, and have the advantage of knowing the topic far earlier than the competition...

See you all on May 24th!

TOPIC SYNOPSIS

Introducing JackrabbitMUN's first Ad-Hoc of the Secretary-General room! What's the topic? That's for you to think about and find out on May 24!

As this is a fast-paced, impromptu room, we recommend experienced crisis delegates to take on this rigor and test the extent of their knowledge and creativity. At the first committee session, you will have a 30 minute research period to learn about [REDACTED] before beginning debate. Improvisation skills? Adaptability? A sharp mind? You'll certainly need all three to get through this crisis. Luckily, you'll be collaborating with some of the best, most experienced delegates in all of Southern California. Are you up for the challenge?

While waiting, stay on the lookout for hints... one of which has already appeared. You may submit answers to these hints via google form. You'll get one attempt per hint, and we will notify you whether your answer is correct or incorrect.

Until then, [REDACTED] out!

COMMITTEE STRUCTURE

This committee will begin on [REDACTED]. As delegates, you will receive various crisis updates throughout committee, where our dais or crisis staff will deliver new information pertinent to the events of committee. Time jumps may occur. Since this committee begins on [REDACTED], we understand that critical events within several character's lives may not yet have occurred, and some information has not yet been revealed to the public. Nonetheless, please abide by your character's original historical timeline. Also, this committee is set in an alternate timeline, and any character actions may diverge from the historical timeline. We recommend making a basic timeline for your character that you can refer to during debate.

When it comes to directives, we allow group (also known as joint private), personal, and committee directives, as well as communiques and press releases.

In the Ad-Hoc committee we use a two-pad system. Your directives will be written on one notepad, and then collected and responded to by crisis staff during updates. Crisis staff will give you another notepad until the next update, and delegates will continue to switch between those two notebooks for all of the committee.

In addition, on the day of the conference, you will be given a folder with a portfolio power. These portfolio powers are secret—only you will know what your portfolio power is—and include two major things: plots and powers. Plots are secret objectives a delegate is trying to accomplish or secret information that only one delegate or a group of delegates would be privy to. For instance, an example of a plot is how in our past “Red Scare” room, multiple delegates were Communists and plotted with each other to overthrow the United States. Powers are special actions that delegates can take. These can range from the ability to “OBJECT!” to another delegate’s speech to a secret task force of spies and analysts that a delegate can command to gather intelligence on their adversaries to the ability to call a general strike and cripple key infrastructure.

Please be advised that at JackrabbitMUN we have a policy of not killing your fellow delegates. Therefore, please do not submit directives attempting to assassinate one another. We also will not entertain directives that involve genocide or nuclear weapons. Thank you so much for signing up and we look forward to meeting you on the 24th!
